THE GREAT FIRE

On November, 16, 1907, the Sea Coast Echo reported that a "conflagration originating from unknown causes destroyed a business portion of Bay St. Louis [on Front Street], including St. Joseph's Academy and Church of Our Lady of the Gulf. Losses will reach $250,000."

The fire originated in the Bay

Mercantile Co. building on the ground floor of the Opera House owned by John Osoinach. Buildings burned and damaged:

Opera House

Clifton Hotel

Studio of Chas. A. Butler

Residence and Business of
A. Weinberg.

St. Joseph's Academy

Church of Our Lady of the Gulf

Catholic Rectory

H. Des Gillum Store

Thomas Reed Drug Store

Crescent Hotel ("Markey House")

Also several buildings owned by Mrs. L. U. Planchet:

Planchet Building, occupied by Kosminsky and Layman on the first floor and the second floor by the Cumberland Telephone Company's central exchange; the King's Daughters Library; the offices of Dr. R. J. Turner; and Mrs. Planchet's residence.

A later report by the Daily Record-Tribune of Gulfport notes the loss of Evans Drug Store, an annex to the Clifton Hotel, a fruit stand, Miss Josie Welch's Book Store and a number of private dwellings. The fire extended to the corner of Union Street before it was under control.

"The Bay is supplied with a very poor fire fighting apparatus and still poorer system of water works," the newspaper reported. "It was only the wide sweep of open country between the bank and the Pickwick Hotel that kept the latter from going also."

The Opera House, recently built at a cost of $12,000, was "said to be insured for about $4,000," the report continues. "The Merchants Bank [which survived] was completed about six months ago of brick and cost $10,000. The Convent consisted of several buildings worth in the neighborhood of $18,000 to $20,000. The Church ...and the rectory cost about $20,000."

H. Des Gillum's Confectionery Store before 1907

Cecil B. DeMille was among the famous artists who performed at Osoinach's Opera house.

FIRE FIGHTERS

Independent Hope Hook and Ladder Fire Co. #8 issued invitations for their 23rd anniversary ball on April 15. At the ball, officers were elected: Wm. Ruhr, president; R.S. Knight, vice president; R. Attaway, foreman; J. J. Manieri, first assistant foreman; Louis Fayard, second assistant foreman; E. Murtagh, treasurer; Charles Chadwick, flag bearer; F. Fayard, banner bearer; J. P. Foster, engineer. (Sea Coast Echo July 29, 1893)

PROHIBITION ON THE BAY

Besides a thriving moonshine industry, Hancock County was noted for traffic in illegal alcohol, as reported in a Gulfport newspaper.

"On many a moonless night the speedboats of Al Capone's gangland empire unloaded on the banks of the Jourdan River their cases of bonded liquor which they had received from ships out in the Gulf beyond the three-mile limit. With their contraband aboard, the speedboats ran the gauntlet of the Coast Guard back through the waters of Bay St. Louis and disappeared into the mouth of the Jourdan River where they transferred to trucks on their way to thirsty customers in Chicago." (The Daily Herald 1958)

Beachwood Hall

806 South Beach Boulevard, Bay Saint Louis, Mississippi

Beachwood Hall is a Greek Revival, one and one half story frame dwelling with an undercut gallery, gabled roof and central entrance. It was built about 1840 by Dominique Gragnon on property from the Necaise land grant of 1813. A photograph of the house was published in Along the Gulf in 1894. At that time, it was the home of Lionel Adams of New Orleans and was described as having broad galleries, wide halls and large windows. The front windows raise from the floor to a height of 6 feet to allow for passing from the gallery into the front parlors and to allow for Gulf breezes to enter the house.

Its present owners have furnished the house with antiques and art, making it one of the outstanding beachfront homes presented this month during the 50th Anniversary Pilgrimage.
